

FOR RELEASE FRIDAY AUGUST 1, 2003

Indiana wineries win big at Indy International Wine Competition

Nearly 3,300 wines traveled to Indianapolis for the nation's third largest wine competition, the Indy International, held last week at the Indiana State Fairgrounds.

Wines from 15 countries as far away as Greece, Israel, and Hungary were judged on appearance, aroma, taste, and aftertaste by 14 panels of judges. In all, 70 judges flew in from Canada, France and across North America to evaluate the wines.

Valdivieso of Santiago, Chile was awarded the Best of Show award, sponsored by American Airlines, for its Cabernet Franc, 2000 Single Vineyard Reserve. Best white wine honors went to St. Supery Vineyards & Winery and best red wine to Rodney Strong Vineyards, both of California.

Indiana was well represented in the competition, with 23 of the state's 27 wineries entering. Hoosier wineries took home a total of five concordance gold, 13 gold, 61 silver, and 99 bronze.

"The Indiana wineries went head to head with wines from throughout the world and brought home 178 medals," said Sally Linton, marketing director for the Indiana Wine Grape Council. "That is quite a feat for a smaller wine producing state and demonstrates that Indiana wines are of high quality."

Huber Winery of Starlight, Indiana near Louisville was awarded the Indiana Governor's Cup as the most award-winning Indiana winery at the competition. Huber took home 17 medals, including two concordance gold, three gold, five silver, and seven bronze.

Chateau Thomas Winery in Plainfield won a concordance gold medal for their Bordeaux Style Blends, three gold medals, eight silver, and 11 bronze. Also receiving honors at the competition, Easley Winery from downtown Indianapolis received seven silver medals and five bronze. Wilson Wines located on the east side of the state near Richmond won two silver and two bronze, and Ferrin's Fruit Winery from Carmel took home one silver and two bronze.

The Indiana wine awards reception took place July 31 at A Taste of Indiana Agriculture, an event held at the Indiana State Fairgrounds to showcase Indiana agricultural products, including its award-winning wines.

~END~

Contacts:

Ellen Harkness, Competition Coordinator, 765-494-6704, harkness@purdue.edu

Sally Linton, Marketing Director, Indiana Wine Grape Council, 765-496-3842, lintons@purdue.edu

Richard Vine, PhD, Honorary Chairman, (765) 494-6500, viner@foodsci.purdue.edu

Note: For a detailed list of Indiana's winning wines, please visit www.in.gov/iwc and click on "Medal Winners"

